Coach Goodwin would like to dedicate this media guide to the All-Americans who have made his 13 years at Stanford so memorable.

Junior Alex Aragon

the rest of the returning group. Last season, Lee posted five top-25 finishes, and his stroke average of 74.39 was the third best on the team. Dahlberg had one top-25 finish last season at the Wolf Pack Invitational, and averaged 75.74 strokes per round. Other returnees include junior Alex Aragon, who posted a ninth-place finish at the U.S. Intercollegiate last season, and has a collegiate stroke average of 76.005; junior Rudy Barreto, from Rio de Janiero, Brazil, who carded a career-best round of 70 last season at the Pac-10 Championship; and a trio of sophomores: Del de Windt from Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, Ned Yetten from Andover, Maryland, and K.C. Yasmer from Tucson, Arizona.

Leading the list of newcomers to Stanford this fall is 20 year-old England native Philip Rowe, the youngest member of the Great Britain and Ireland 1999 Walker Cup. Teamed with Gary Wolstenholme, the duo won both of their doubles matches in Nairn, Scotland. Rowe also defeated Georgia Tech's All-American, Matt Kuchar, in singles. Rowe is a sophomore transfer from Exeter University.

The freshman contingent also includes Ron Won, who has been ranked as high as fourth among junior golfers in the U.S.; Jim Seki, the 1998 Hawaii High School Champion; and George Downing, the Southern California Match-Play Champion. This group of four newcomers will be a dominant factor in Stanford's success this year.

Coach Goodwin said, "I have a gut feeling that the fall collegiate tournaments will be successful for us as a team, and that the competitive yet calm nature of most of the players will enable the 1999-2000 edition of Cardinal golf to make a very significant name for itself. I feel very positive about the year ahead of us."

Men's head golf coach Wally Goodwin is retiring at the end of the 2000 golf season, and he would like to see his team finish among the nation's elite. With the loss of four-time All-American Joel Kribel, the team will aim in a new direction for leadership and depth. This season, the team adds three very experienced freshmen and a sophomore transfer from England to an already talented team of returnees. If past performance means anything, the fortunes of this young team will take a dramatic turn upward this season.

The team will be led by captain Dusty Brett of Tacoma, Washington. Brett's final campaign as a collegian looks to be bright as he heads in the 1999-2000 season off an outstanding summer. In the summer of 1999, Brett qualified for the U.S. National Amateur Championship, and won the Tacoma City Crown. He finished strong in the Washington State Amateur and in the Pacific Northwest. His best showing was a runner-up finish at the Pacific Coast Amateur. In his three-year collegiate career, Brett has a career stroke average of 74.50. His best collegiate finish last year was a first place finish at the Husky Invitational. Brett also finished second at the Nike/Northwest Classic. "He's a 150 percent guy in every way," said Goodwin.

Wally Goodwin Men's Golf Coach

Wally Goodwin enters his 13th and final year as the head coach of the Stanford men's golf team. Goodwin will coach the team through this season before retiring in June, 2000 to his family ranch in Wyoming. In his 13 seasons on The Farm, he has produced some of the greatest teams and individual golfers in Stanford history. Among those is Tiger Woods, the most decorated golfer in the Cardinal record books. While here, Woods captured 10 individual tournament titles, including the 1996 NCAA individual championship. Goodwin's 1994 team became the school's seventh NCAA men's golf championship team when they captured the title for the first time in more than forty years. The 1995 team recorded a second-place finish at the NCAA tournament.

In the past five years alone, Goodwin's teams have posted 21 tournament wins, 10 runner-up finishes, and seven third-place finishes.

Goodwin's list of accomplishments is highlighted by a 1994 NCAA Coach of the Year honor. He was also named the 1992 and 1995 Pac-10 Coach of the Year. In addition, he has coached two Pac-10 Championship teams, three individual conference champions and seven All-Americans.

In the past five years alone, Goodwin's teams have posted 21 tournament wins, ten runner-up finishes, and seven third-place finishes.

Goodwin's coaching experience spans throughout college and high school athletics. Before Goodwin's stint on The Farm, he spent six years as the head men's golf coach at Northwestern in Evanston, Ill. Goodwin coached All-American Jim Benepe, PGA tour player Fran Quinn and Asian Tour player Don Boulet. Goodwin's involvement in high school athletics began at Fountain Valley High School in Colorado Springs, Colo., where he served as head football and basketball coach as well as assistant director of athletics for four years. He then served as head coaches for football and basketball at Western Reserve Academy. Three years later, Goodwin relocated to Pebble Beach to become the athletic director, basketball coach and golf coach at Robert Louis Stevenson High School. The last three years of Goodwin's 21-year basketball coaching career was spent as an assistant coach at Stetson University in Deland, Fla.

Goodwin graduated from Pomfret High School in Pomfret, Conn. He was honorably discharged from the military in August 1946 after serving in World War II. He then returned to school at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville where he earned a bachelor of science degree in physical education in 1951.

Wally and his wife, the former Nancy Lane Booth, have been married for more than 40 years. They reside on the Stanford campus. They have two sons, Putter and Reamy.

The Knowles Family Endowed Golf Fund

The Men's Golf Program would like to acknowledge the generosity of Ray and Louise Knowles, who recently established the Knowles Family Golf Fund. This endowed fund will provide support for the activities and operations of the men's intercollegiate golf program in perpetuity. Money from this fund will augment the annual gifts to the program to allow the Stanford Men's Golf Team to maintain its high standards of success.

Stanford's Scholarship Funding

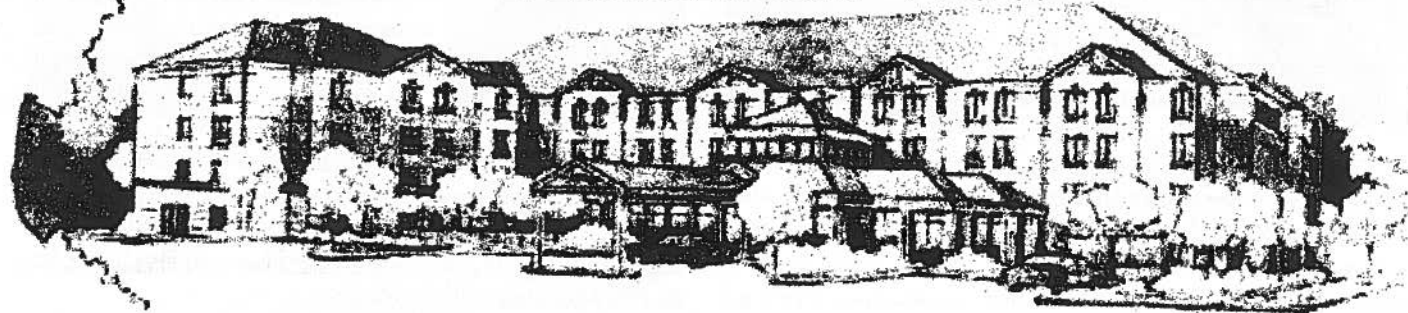

Two sources provide scholarship funds for Stanford's student-athletes: the Athletic Department's scholarship endowment and the Buck/Cardinal Club. Together they provide upwards of $9 million in financial aid.

Endowed Scholarships

Endowed scholarships are large sums of money that have been invested in the University's endowment and generate significant interest income each year. A portion of the income is spent on student aid and the remainder is reinvested in the principal. The following endowed scholarships, named for the donor or for someone the donor wishes to honor, provide full or partial grants-in-aid to members of the 1999-2000 men's golf team:

- The Berl/Tatum Scholarship: Dusty Brett
- The Robert J. Cardinal Scholarship: Rudy Barreto, Del DeWindt and James Lee
- The Henry Hinds '41 Memorial Scholarship: Jim Seki
- The Raymond V. and Louise A. Knowles Scholarship: Ron Won

Wally Goodwin's Legacy

Wally Goodwin's Legacy

In his 13 years on The Farm, men's head golf coach Wally Goodwin has coached seven All-Americans; Christian Cevaer, Casey Martin, Notah Begay III, Steve Burdick, William Yanagisawa, Tiger Woods and Joel Kribel. These seven outstanding athletes are testament to Goodwin's excellent instruction and dedication to the sport of golf.

Perhaps the most notable of the All-Americans who have played under Goodwin's direction is Tiger Woods, who won the Masters in 1997 and the PGA Championship in 1999. In 1996, Woods became the second Cardinal in school history to take the NCAA Men's Golf Championship. Woods played for Goodwin from 1994-'96, and was named first team All-America in 1995 and '96. He still holds the Stanford records for lowest individual round (61, played in 1996 at the Pac-10 Championship), low stroke average (70.9 in 1996) and career low stroke average (71.1).

Woods' name is not the only to grace the Stanford record book. Between these seven All-Americans, they own every single record in Stanford golf.

The most recent All-American to play for Goodwin was Joel Kribel, who competed for Stanford from 1997-99. Kribel tied for second at the NCAA Championship in 1998. He was named first team All-America in 1997, '98, and '99. He currently plays at various PGA events and Nike Tournaments.

Notah Begay played for the Cardinal from 1990-'95, and was named All-America in 1992, '94, and '95. Begay recently qualified, and is now a member of the PGA Tour. He won his first match as a member of the PGA in Reno at the Reno/Tahoe Open.

Other Stanford greats include William Yanagisawa, who was at The Farm from 1993-'95, and was named All-America in 1994. Yanagisawa plays on the Canadian Tour, and recently won the first stage of the qualifying matches to join the Japanese PGA Tour.

Christian Cevaer, at Stanford from 1989-92, was the first All-American Wally Goodwin coached. Named All-America in 1990, Cevaer went on to play on the European Tour.

Casey Martin, a Cardinal from 1990-'95 and an All-America in 1991 and '94, now plays on the Nike Tour.

Steve Burdick, at Stanford from 1992-94, has retired from the game of golf. An All-American in 1993, Burdick is now a minister at the Community Covenant Church in Rocklin, Calif.

These seven men have carved their names, and coach Goodwin's, into Stanford's storied history. They are an affirmation of Goodwin's coaching career and success.

Championship Par Excellence Stanford Golf Course

by Gordon I. Ratliff

In the 1920s, Stanford students lobbied for a golf course. The golf team was using the Burlingame Course for practice and was coached by the Burlingame pro Harold Sampson. Luckily they found an enthusiast in Almon E. Roth '09, the University Controller, who had become hooked on the game and was a member of the Los Altos Country Club. In February 1929, he persuaded the Stanford University Board of Trustees to provide the land and finance the construction. Then he gave instructions to Al Masters, the manager of the Athletic Department, to hire George C. Thomas Jr. and William "Billy" Bill to design and build the course.

Roth had his own ideas as to the layout of the course. When Bell arrived in March they walked the area. Bell immediately saw the possibility of incorporating San Francisquito Creek into the design. To get the land on the other side of the creek, which belonged to the Buck Estate, required a change in the California State Constitution to permit a land swap. Roth flew to Sacramento from the Palo Alto Airport in an open cockpit biplane to lobby for the change.

Construction began in May 1929 with great care to preserve the oak trees. Only 75 had to be removed. At that time water from the irrigation of campus came from Searsville Lake. A lot more water would be required for the golf course, so Felt Lake was enlarged to a capacity of 278,000,000 gallons. By December the course was ready. It opened January 1, 1930. "Dick" Templeton, the track coach who first used starting blocks in track meets, was in the first foursome.

Thomas designed the course and Bell managed the construction. Bell traveled back and forth to Beverly Hills updating Thomas on his progress and getting further instructions. Thomas was ill and died a couple of years later having never seen the results of his effort. A very unique feature of the course was Bell's bunker design. It was very natural with edges that were not well defined.

The course cost $188,000 and enlarging Felt Lake was $190,000. The club house, which cost $54,000, was designed by the architects Bakewell and Brown, who had designed many buildings on campus and were noted for having done City Hall in San Francisco. Club member Wells P. Goodenough, was the contractor.

In 1930 the course was ranked in the top 15 by Dr. H. J. Morlan who had played more than 800 golf courses in the world. Not too long ago it was still ranked among the top 100. The 12th hole is one of the most difficult in Northern California, having four trees down the middle of the fairway. The 18th tee is probably the most picturesque because of the spectacular view of San Francisco and almost the entire Bay Area.

Home of Champions

"Home of Champions." Those are the bywords for the Stanford University Athletic Department

And for good reason. No athletic department in the country can boast of the kind of success that Stanford has accomplished since the 1980s. NCAA team champions. NCAA individual champions. Olympic medallists. Stanford University athletes have been all over the world capturing championships.

The statistics speak for themselves: Stanford University has won 59 NCAA team championships and 227 individual NCAA titles since 1980, the most in the nation; Cardinal athletes have won 50 NCAA championships the past 14 years (1985-99) – again the most in the nation. Stanford has brought home 12 NCAA championship trophies the past three years, including an unprecedented six NCAA team titles in 1996-97. In 1991-92, Stanford athletes took home 29 individual NCAA titles – an NCAA record. Cardinal athletes won 21 individual championships during the 1992-93 season, the second most in history.

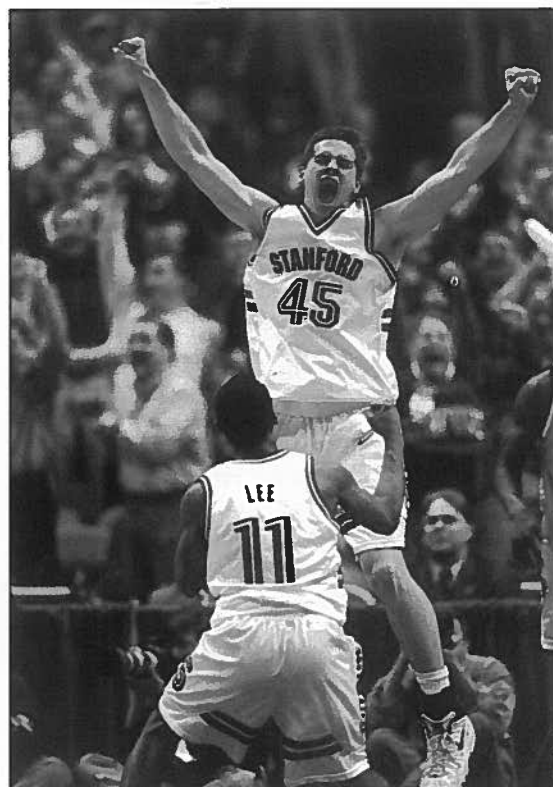

Even more impressive is Stanford's string of five consecutive Sears Directors' Cup titles (1995-99). The award honors the nation's top overall athletic program and with five straight #1 finishes, it's no wonder Stanford Athletics is considered the dominant athletic program in the nation. Last year, Cardinal teams won one NCAA team title, but still easily topped the Sears Directors' Cup standings with tremendous overall success. Stanford 14 teams finish among the top five in the nation, 21 in the top-10 and an amazing 25 teams in the top-20.

All totaled, Stanford has won 86 collegiate team titles (76 NCAA championships) and 327 NCAA individual titles. Cardinal women have won an NCAA-best 25 team championships while men's teams have captured 51 NCAA team titles, third best in the nation.

During the past three years, Stanford athletics has captured an amazing 12 NCAA team championships and 14 national titles overall – by far the best in the nation. In the last eight years (since 1991-92), Stanford has claimed 35 national team championships and 32 NCAA team titles – once again the best in the country.

In Olympic competition, Stanford has enjoyed unequalled success. At the 1992 Games in Barcelona, Cardinal athletes earned 19 medals, 10 gold, four silver and five bronze. If Stanford were a country, it would've placed 13th in the world with its 19 medals and ninth with 10 golds. Thirty-eight Stanford-affiliated athletes and coaches participated in Barcelona while 41 members of the Cardinal family took part in the 1988 Olympic Games in Seoul, Korea.

At the 1996 Games in Atlanta, Stanford again placed 49 coaches and athletes on Olympic Teams, including three head United States Olympic coaches (Tara VanDerveer, women's basketball; Richard Quick, women's swimming; Skip Kenney, men's swimming). Stanford athletes accounted for 16 gold medals, one silver and one bronze in Atlanta.

An Art Lee steal ... and a Mark Madsen dunk ... and Stanford was off to the 1998 Final Four, dropping only to eventual NCAA Champion Kentucky in overtime in perhaps the most exciting game of the tourney.

NCAA titles have become quite commonplace in the Stanford Athletic Department. In 1996-97, Cardinal teams set an NCAA record by winning six NCAA team championships in a single academic year: men's and women's cross country, men's and women's volleyball and men's and women's tennis. Nine other teams finished in the top-four nationally, including second place finishes in women's swimming, men's swimming, men's water polo and women's synchronized swimming, third place finishes in women's basketball, baseball and fencing, and fourth place finishes in women's golf and women's water polo.

1996-97 also saw the Cardinal football team advance to the Sun Bowl, the 18th bowl game in school history, the women's basketball team return to the Final Four, the baseball team qualify for the College World Series and the men's basketball team advance to the Sweet Sixteen of the NCAA Tournament for the first time since they the 1942 NCAA title.

The following year, 1997-98, Stanford won NCAA team titles in men's cross country, women's volleyball, men's swimming, women's swimming and men's tennis along with a U.S. Collegiate title in synchronized swimming. Also, 14 teams finished among the nation's top five, 19 in the top 10 and 22 in the top

Olympic gold medalists Pablo Morales and Jeff Rouse are alums of a Stanford swim program that has produced 17 national team titles and countless Olympians.

20. Other teams finishing among the top five nationally include men's basketball, which made its first Final Four appearance in 56 years, women's tennis, men's water polo, women's water polo and fencing.

Last year, Stanford won one NCAA team title in women's tennis and one national collegiate championship in synchronized swimming. Seven teams placed second in the nation, including men's cross country, men's soccer, men's swimming, women's swimming, men's track and field, men's water polo and women's water polo. Third place finishers included baseball, women's cross country and men's and women's fencing.

Cardinal teams also won 18 conference or regional championships last year – by far the best performance of any school in the nation. Stanford has now won 89 conference or regional titles in the last seven years and 98 in the last eight seasons.

Not only has the Cardinal won an NCAA record six NCAA team championships in a single season (1996-97), but it has also won five NCAA titles in a single year on three occasions: 1991-92, '94-95 and '97-98. Cardinal teams have won four championships in a single academic year on four occasions: 1985-86, '86-87, '92-93 and '93-94.

Stanford has simply dominated in several sports. Under head coach Dick Gould, the Cardinal men's tennis team has won 16 NCAA titles while the women's team has hauled in 11 national titles, all but one under current head coach Frank Brennan. The men's swimming program has won eight NCAA team championships, seven under current head coach Skip Kenney while the men's water polo team has captured eight national titles, seven under current head coach Dante Dettamanti.

The Cardinal women's swimming team has won nine national titles, seven under current head coach Richard Quick. Both Quick and Kenney were head coaches of the 1996 United States Olympic Swimming Teams. Tara VanDerveer, the 1996 United States Olympic Head Women's Basketball Coach, has led the Cardinal to two NCAA championships and five appearances in the Final Four.

Baseball coach Mark Marquess, who was the head coach of the gold medal winning 1988 United States Olympic baseball team, led the Cardinal to back-to-back College World Series titles in 1987 and '88. Men's gymnastics coach Sadao Hamada has led the Cardinal to three NCAA championships, women's volleyball coach Don Shaw has guided his team to four NCAA titles in the last seven years and men's golf coach Wally Goodwin led his team to the NCAA title in 1994, the first men's golf title at Stanford since 1953. Vin Lananna joined the championship parade in 1996 by leading both his men's and women's cross Stanford captured two consecutive NCAA titles in 1987 and 1988. Head Coach Mark Marquess is one of the winningest coaches in collegiate baseball.

The women's volleyball team captured NCAA titles in 1992, '94, '96 and '97. Dave Gonzales country teams to national titles. He came back in 1997 to lead his men's cross country team to another NCAA title.

Olympic gold medallists are numerous on The Farm. Former Cardinal standout Bob Mathias won back-to-back Olympic decathlon gold medals in 1948 and '52 while swimmers Pablo Morales, Jenny Thompson, Summer Sanders and Janet Evans have become household names in the swimming world.

Morales, who helped Stanford win three straight NCAA team championships (1985-87), won three medals at the '84 Games in Los Angeles (one gold, two silver) and two more gold medals at the '92 Games in Barcelona. Evans won three golds in the '88 Games in Seoul and one gold and one silver in Barcelona while Sanders won four medals in Barcelona, two gold, one silver and one bronze. Thompson has won five Olympic gold medals and tied for the most Olympic gold medals by a U.S. woman.

Some of the great student-athletes in Stanford history include Tiger Woods and Tom Watson (golf), John McEnroe (tennis), Kim Oden (volleyball), Kristin Folk (basketball/volleyball), Jack McDowell and Mike Mussina (baseball), Hank Luisetti and Brevin Knight (men's basketball), Jennifer Azzi and Kate Starbird (women's basketball), Jim Plunkett and John Elway (football), Debi Thomas (figure skating), Eric Heiden (speed skating) and the great Ernie Nevers (football), to name a few.

It's no wonder Stanford University is often referred to as the "NCAA's Champion of Champions."

Stanford's football team has made four bowl appearances during the '90s.

From the Foothills Stanford University to the Bay

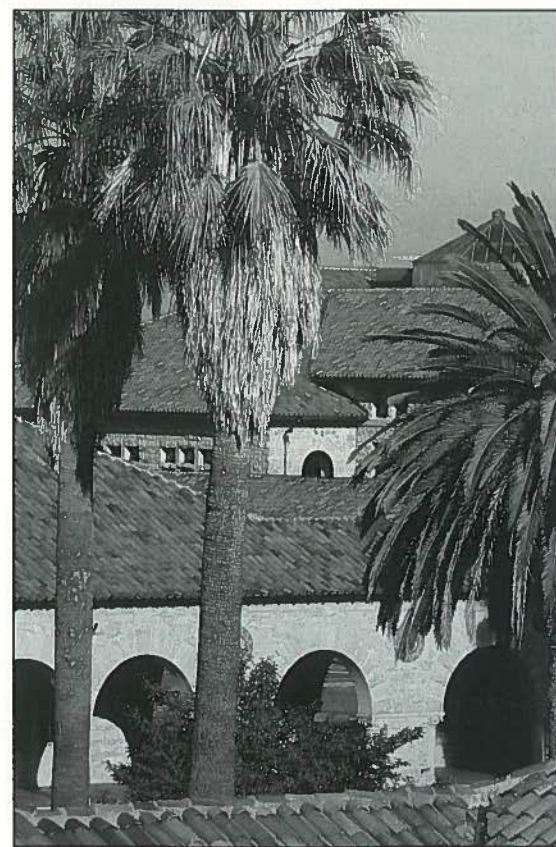

Stanford University still enjoys the original 8,100 acres of grassy fields, eucalyptus groves, and rolling hills that were the Stanfords' generous legacy.

Stanford at a Glance

On October 1, 1891, the 465 new students who were on hand for opening day ceremonies at Leland Stanford Junior University greeted Leland and Jane Stanford enthusiastically, with a chant they had made up and rehearsed only that morning. Wah-hoo! Wah-hoo! L-S-J-U! Stanford! Its wild and spirited tone symbolized the excitement of this bold adventure. As a pioneer faculty member recalled, "Hope was in every heart, and the presiding spirit of freedom prompted us to dare greatly."

For the Stanfords on that day, the university was the realization of a dream and a fitting tribute to the memory of their only son, who had died of typhoid fever weeks before his sixteenth birthday. Far from the nation's center of culture and unencumbered by tradition or ivy, the new university drew students from all over the country; many from California; some who followed professors hired from other colleges and universities; and some simply seeking adventure in the West. Though there were many difficulties during the first months — housing was inadequate, microscopes and books were late in arriving from the East — the first year foretold greatness. As Jane Stanford wrote in the summer of 1892, "Even our fondest hopes have been realized."

Stanford University's picturesque campus is noted for its characteristic sandstone architecture with red-tile roofs. The Stanford Memorial Church (right) greets visitors who approach the University from downtown Palo Alto.

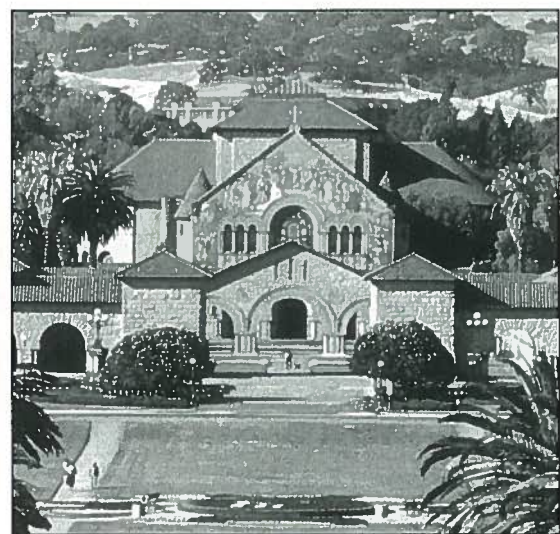

Ideas of "Practical Education"

Governor and Mrs. Stanford had come from families of modest means and had built their way up through a life of hard work. So it was natural that their first thoughts were to establish an institution where young men and women could "grapple successfully with the practicalities of life." As their thoughts matured, these ideas of "practical education" enlarged to the concept of producing cultured and useful citizens who were well-prepared for professional success.

More than one hundred years later, the university still enjoys the original 8,180 acres (almost 13 square miles) of grassy fields, eucalyptus groves, and rolling hills that were the Stanfords' generous legacy, as well as the Quadrangle of "long corridors with their stately pillars" at the center of campus. It is still true, as the philosopher William James said, during his stint as a visiting professor, that the climate is "so friendly ... that every morning wakes one fresh for new amounts of work."

Current Perspectives

In other ways, the University has changed tremendously on its way to recognition as one of the world's great universities. At the hub of a vital and diverse Bay Area, Stanford is an hour's drive south of San Francisco and just a few miles north of the Silicon Valley, an area dotted with computer and high technology firms largely spawned by the University's faculty and graduates. On campus, students and faculty enjoy new libraries, modern laboratories, sports facilities, and comfortable residences. Contemporary sculpture, as well as pieces from the Stanford Museum's extensive collection of sculpture by Auguste Rodin, is placed throughout the campus, providing unexpected pleasures at many turns. At the Stanford Medical Center, world-renowned for its research, teaching, and patient care, scientists and physicians are searching for answers to fundamental questions about health and disease. Ninety miles down the coast, at Stanford's Hopkins Marine Station on the Monterey Bay, scientists are working to better understand the mechanisms of evolution, human development, and ecological systems.

The University is organized into seven schools: Earth Sciences, Education, Engineering, the Graduate School of Business, Humanities and Sciences, Law and Medicine. In addition, there are more than 30 interdisciplinary centers, programs, and research laboratories — including the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace; the Institute for International Studies; the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center; and the Stanford Center for the Study of Families, Children and Youth — where faculty from a wide range of fields bring different perspectives to bear on issues and problems. Stanford's Overseas Studies Program offers students in all fields remarkable opportunities for study abroad, with campuses in Paris, Kyoto, Santiago, Berlin, Oxford, Florence, and Moscow.

Stanford People

By any measure, Stanford's faculty — which numbers approximately 1,500 — is one of the most distinguished in the nation. It includes 12 Nobel laureates, 6 Pulitzer Prize winners, 20 National Medal of Science winners, 109 members of the National Academy of Sciences, 208 members of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, 72 members of the National Academy of Engineering, and 21 members of the National Academy of Education. Yet beyond their array of honors, what truly distinguishes Stanford faculty is their commitment to sharing knowledge with their students. The great majority of professors teach undergraduates both in introductory lecture classes and in small advanced seminars.

Millions of volumes are housed in many libraries throughout the campus.

Stanford draws from the best students and faculty throughout the world.

Windsurfing and beachside studying are among the popular activities at beautiful Lake Lagunita on campus.

Currently 13,900 students, of which 6,500 are undergraduates, live and study on campus. About 40 percent come from California, but all 50 states and approximately 100 countries are represented as well. Among undergraduates, 44 percent are African American, Asian American, Hispanic or Native American. Like the faculty, the Stanford student body is distinguished. Approximately 10 students apply to Stanford for every place in the freshman class. Seventy-six Stanford students have been named Rhodes Scholars and 52 have been named Marshall

Scholars. Nearly 90 percent of graduating seniors plan to attend graduate or professional schools. Stanford students also shine in a tremendous array of activities outside the classroom — from student government to music, theater, and journalism. Through the Haas Center for Public Service, students participate in dozens of community service activities, such as tutoring programs for children in nearby East Palo Alto, the Hunger Project, and the Arbor Free Clinic.

In the athletic arena, Stanford students have enjoyed tremendous success as well. Stanford fields teams in 33 Division I varsity sports — equally divided between men's and women's teams. Of Stanford's 86 national team titles, 36 have been captured in the past ten years, by far the most in the nation in the 1990s. Thirty-eight of Stanford's athletes and coaches participated in the 1992 Olympics in Barcelona while 49 competed in Atlanta at the 1996 Games — by far the most of any university in the nation. Intramural and club sports are also popular; over 1,000 students take part in the club sports program, while participation in the intramural program has reached 9,000, with many students active in more than one sport.

Looking Ahead

In her address to the Board of Trustees, in 1904, Jane Stanford said, "... Let us not be afraid to outgrow old thoughts and ways, and dare to think on new lines as to the future of the work under our care." Her thoughts echo in the words of current Stanford President Gerhard Casper, who has said, "The true university must reinvent itself every day. ... At Stanford, these are days of such reconsideration and fresh support for our fundamental tasks — teaching, learning, and research."

Joggers and walkers enjoy a trek past the "Dish" along Stanford's many trails in the foothills above the campus.

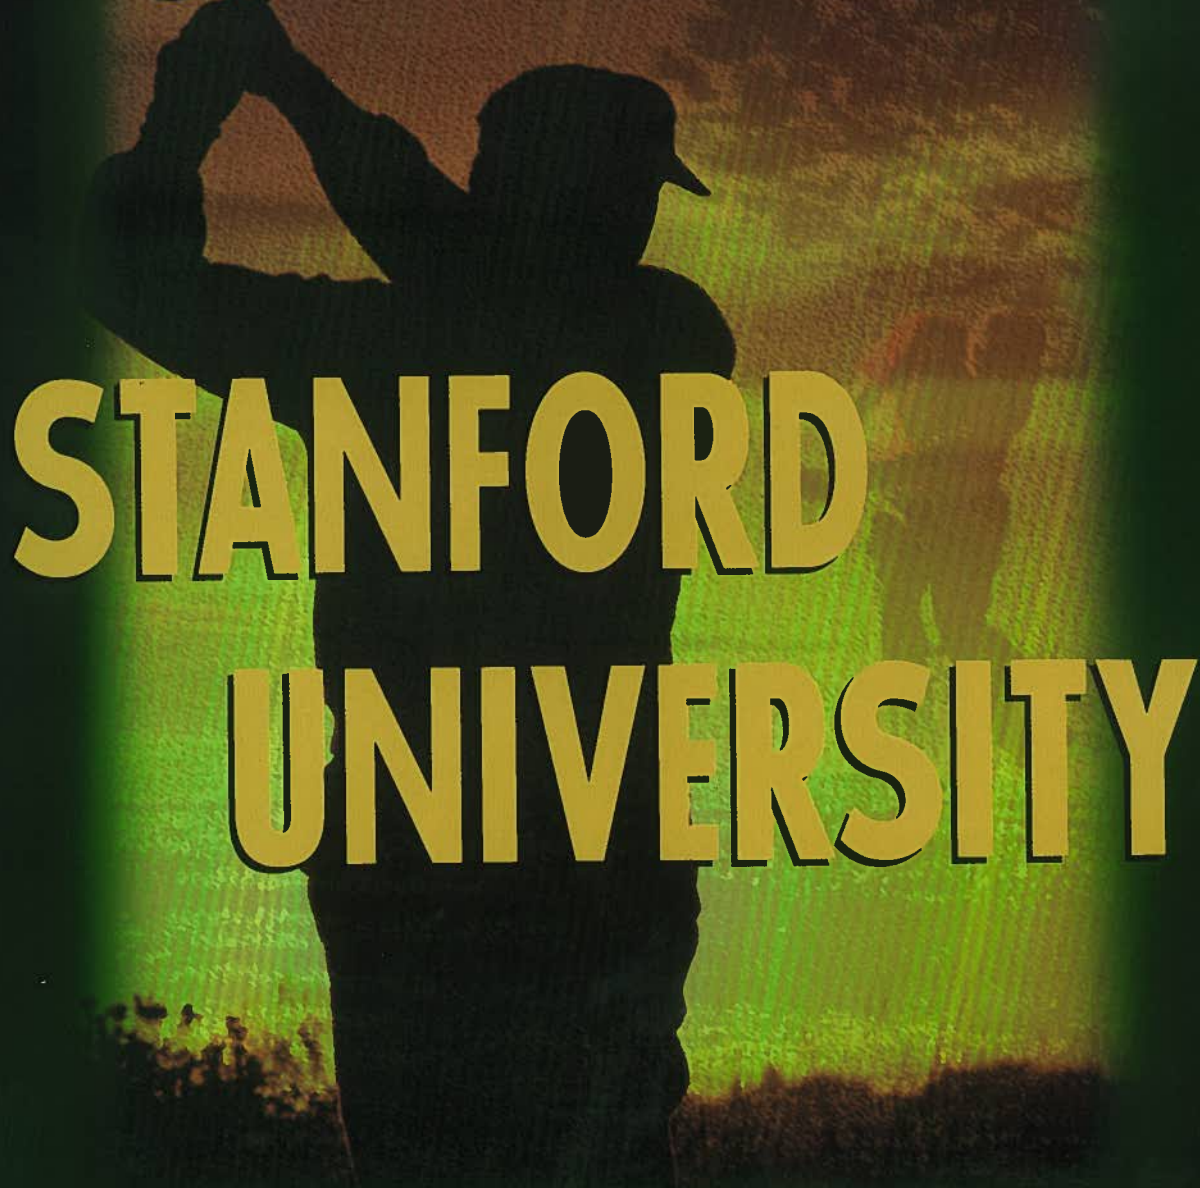

Hopkins Marine Station is Stanford's marine biology research facility located a short walk from the famous Cannery Row in Monterey.

San Francisco, with its famous sights and landmarks, is located an hour's drive from campus.

Good Luck...
