HIGH GOALS FOR 2006-07

With talented mix of veterans and youth, Stanford looks for another successful season.

The Stanford men's golf team begins the 2006-07 season with high expectations following two successful seasons under third-year head coach Conrad Ray. The Cardinal returns seven of nine players including Pac-10 Co-Player of the Year, Rob Grube. Added to this mix are two talented newcomers in Joseph Bramlett and Jordan Cox. The team's mix of veterans and youth is loaded with talent and an unquenchable hunger to succeed.

A trio of seniors will anchor the Stanford squad in 2006-07 – Zack Miller (San Rafael, CA), Matt Savage (Scottsdale, AZ) and Matt Shin (Cerritos, CA). Miller competed in all 13 events for the Cardinal last year, recording a 73.0 stroke average. He notched two top 10 finishes and four additional top 25 finishes during the season. His best finish was a second place showing at the Ashworth Invitational (11/27-28) where he recorded a season-low round of 68 on the final day of competition. Miller produced nine par and five under par rounds during the year as well.

"Zack Miller will be the captain for the 2006 and 2007 season and his leadership will be the foundation for our success," noted Ray. "Zack has continued to improve and we look for big things from Zack this season."

Stanford's Matt Savage saw action in 11 events for the Cardinal last year with a 74.3 stroke average. He had two top 25 finishes, including a season-best tie for 17th at the UH Hilo Intercollegiate. Savage recorded three par and three under par rounds during the season.

"Matt Savage had a wonderful summer of amateur golf and we hope that he will continue that good play for the team in the new season," said Ray. "Matt is a very consistent performer and that consistency is important in having a well-rounded team score. Matt should have a great season."

Rounding out the trio of veterans is Matt Shin who competed in three events for Stanford in '05-'06 with a 75.5 stroke average. His top finish was a tie for 46th at the Alister MacKenzie Invitational where he shot a season-low round of 70 in the second round of play.

"Matt Shin brings with him a competitive fire that is the strongest on the team," Ray said. "He is not afraid of anyone and we hope that that feeling carries over to the rest of the team."

Two juniors help fill out the field of upperclassmen on the Cardinal roster – Teddy Collins (Louisville, KY) and Rob Grube (Hinsdale, IL). Collins returns to the links after sitting out last season as a red shirt.

"Teddy has worked very hard in the off season and he should be much improved in the coming year," noted Ray.

All-American junior Rob Grube was named Pac-10 Co-Player of the Year in 2005-06.

Returning All-American Rob Grube looks to continue his impressive outings on the links in 2006-07. Grube, who was tabbed Pac-10 Co-Player of the Year, competed in 12 events last season, posting a team-low 71.2 stroke average. Grube had eight top 10 finishes and an additional top 25 finish as well. He notched 14 under par rounds and eight par rounds during the season. He won two tournament individual titles – The U.S. Intercollegiate and the Western Intercollegiate. He also recorded a second place showing at the Alister MacKenzie Invitational.

"We are fortunate to call Rob Grube a Cardinal," Ray said. "Rob is one of the top players in the nation and this can be seen in his scores and results. We look

He was a four-time first-team all-league selection and four-time team MVP. Cox was a first-team AJGA All-American and holds the record for lowest WCAL scoring average. He was the runner up in the 2003 USGA Junior Amateur Championship and 2004 British Junior Open Champion at Kilmarnock Golf Club in Ayrshire, Scotland. Cox was also the 2005 Rolex Tournament Champion Medalist and 2005 California Amateur Medalist.

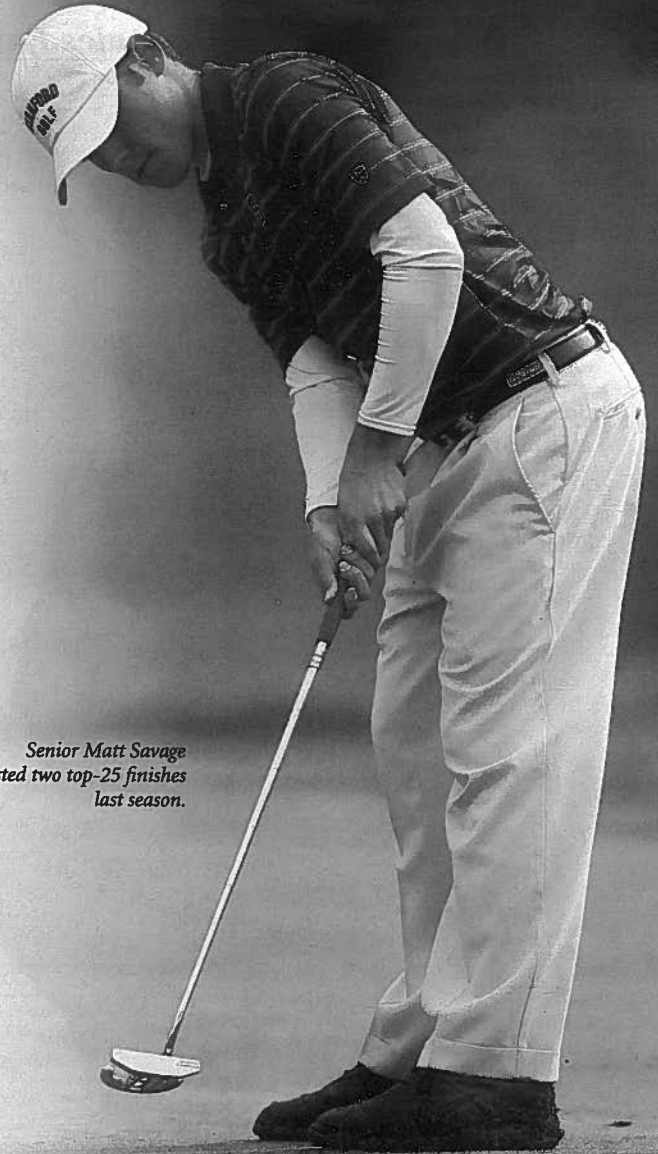

“Joseph and Jordan are prime time players,” Ray noted. “Both have tremendous national experience and will likely be a huge part of our success this year. They will push each other as well as the older guys on the team. They both add an intangible quality to the team dynamic and we are really excited to have them on the Farm.”

The squad has already gotten off to a great start in 2006-07, winning their first fall tournament of the season – the Gopher Invitational. The team victory marked head coach Conrad Ray first as a head coach. The Cardinal followed that win with a second place showing at the Fighting Illini Invitational.

The Cardinal squad has a tough road ahead of them with a challenging schedule in '06-'07.

Stanford will host the U.S. Intercollegiate in the spring at the Stanford Golf Course and co-host The Prestige at PGA West (La Quinta, CA) with UC Davis this fall. UCLA's Corde Valle Classic always provides the Cardinal with some stiff competition and helps the team prepare for the always competitive Pac-10 Championships in the spring.

While Stanford definitely has a team stacked with experience, youth may play an equal part of the equation of success this season. The squad looks forward to the challenges and excitement of the 2006-06 season.

Senior Matt Savage posted two top-25 finishes last season.

RAD RAY

e Knowles Family Director of Men's Golf

Conrad Ray, a former Cardinal golfer and touring golf professional, begins his third season as head coach of the Stanford men's golf program.

During his second year at the helm of the program, the Cardinal posted 10 top 10 finishes and advanced to the NCAA West Regionals. Golfer Rob Grube was tabbed Pac-10 Co-Player of the Year and was honored as a third-team All-American.

In his first season as head coach for the Cardinal, Ray led his squad its first NCAA Championship appearance since 2001. Under Ray's guidance, Stanford tied for 18th overall while freshman Rob Grube tied for fifth individually, becoming the first Stanford golfer to record a top five finish since 1998.

"Conrad is a great fit for Stanford and brings a wealth of knowledge of the game from his professional experience," said Stanford athletic director Bob Bowsby. "As a former student-athlete and member of the 1994 NCAA Championship team, he understands what it takes to succeed here at Stanford University."

"I am very excited to be back to Stanford and be a part of a program and university I hold in high esteem," said Ray. "I look forward to continuing the winning tradition and meeting the future challenges of the Stanford golf program. My experience here on The Farm was one that I cherish and look forward to affording new student-athletes the same great experience."

Ray is a 1997 graduate of Stanford University where he earned a bachelor of arts in Public Policy.

A three-year letterwinner for the Cardinal golf team, he was a member of the 1994 NCAA Champion golf team where he played with Casey Martin and Notah Begay. He captained the team in 1997 and was an All-Pac-10 and Pac-10 All-Academic selection that season as well. His senior year he posted six top 10 finishes and nine under-par rounds. Ray's 73.95 stroke average was second-best on the squad.

Ray was tapped to play in the U.S. Open at Pinehurst last June. He has played on the Nationwide Tour and other world tours since 1998 and achieved 12 top-10 finishes in that span. He has worked extensively with numerous golf instructors throughout the country and has organized and administered various pro-am and fund-raising golf tournaments, including the Karl Potach Memorial Tournament for children's cancer research and the Bart McCormick Classic.

Ray is married to the former Jennifer Woods and has a new baby daughter, Ella Katherine Ray.

PURYEAR

Assistant Coach

Sam Puryear begins his second season as an Assistant coach for the Stanford men's golf program.

"Sam Puryear brings a wealth of unique personal experience to the Stanford Men's Program," said Ray. "Sam loves to work with kids and his passion for doing things the right way will be infectious. The fact that Sam's position is the first ever full time assistant coach dedicated solely to the Men's Golf Team speaks to his qualifications and is exciting for all of us. Sam will help us achieve the high goals we have set for the entire program."

Puryear most recently was executive director of the East Lake Junior Golf Academy in Atlanta, Georgia, where he oversaw the development of golf instruction and curriculum for the academy which served 700 youth. While at the academy, he created a Pro-Am charity classic and introduced the game of golf to over 1,000 urban youth in the East Lake community.

Before working at the academy, Puryear was a District Executive for the Boy Scouts of America in Louisville, Kentucky, where he created an inner-city golf tournament and hosted golf clinics using local club professionals to assist underprivileged youth.

Puryear received a bachelor of science from Tennessee State University in 1992 where he was a four-year letterwinner for the golf team. He captained the team in 1991 and was a three-year recipient of the golf team's Highest Grade Point Average Award.

LOFBERG

Operations Associate

Mike Lofberg begins his fourth year as the Golf Operations Associate for the Stanford women's and men's golf teams.

Lofberg spent four years in the Stanford Athletic Development department before moving over to the golf programs. He now oversees four collegiate golf tournaments and all fundraisers for both programs. He graduated from Villanova in 1999. He and wife, Lisa, have one son, Matthew. They currently reside in San Francisco.

“I had such a great time playing golf at Stanford. Just all the practicing, playing and qualifying. It was always competitive and a bunch of fun being around each other.

The Stanford golf team was surprised at the driving range by former Cardinal golfer Tiger Woods, who was in town for the American Express Championships in Harding Park.

The Stanford Golf Course is among the finest private courses in the nation, with a spectacular view from the 18th tee which looks out toward the San Francisco skyline.

by Gordon I. Ratliff

The Stanford University Golf Course was designed in 1930 by renowned golf course architects William Bell and George C. Thomas, Jr. Located in the foothills above the Stanford University Campus, the golf course is consistently rated one of the finest courses in the world. In 1998, the golf course was rated 91st in the country by Golf Week Magazine and in 1993 was rated 88th in the world by Golf Magazine.

In the 1920s, Stanford students lobbied for a golf course. The golf team was using the Burlingame Course for practice and was coached by the Burlingame pro Harold Sampson. Luckily, the students found an enthusiast in Almon E. Roth '09, the University Controller, who had become hooked on the game and was a member of the Los Altos Country Club. In February 1929, he persuaded the Stanford University Board of Trustees to provide the land and finance the construction of a golf course at the University. Then he and Al Masters, the manager of the Athletic Department, hired George C. Thomas Jr. and William "Billy" Bell to design and build the course.

Roth had his own ideas as to the layout of the course, and when Bell arrived in March they walked the area. Bell immediately saw the possibility of incorporating San Francisco Creek into the design. Acquiring the land on the other side of the creek, which belonged to the Buck Estate, required a change in the California State Constitution to allow a land swap. Roth flew to Sacramento from the Palo Alto Airport in an open cockpit biplane to lobby for the change.

Thomas designed the course and Bell managed the construction. Bell traveled back and forth to Beverly Hills updating Thomas on his progress and getting further instructions. Thomas was ill and died a couple of years later having never seen the results of his effort.

Construction began in May of 1929, with great care being taken to preserve the oak trees. Ultimately, only 75 had to be removed. At that time, water for the irrigation of the campus came from Searsville Lake. Since a much greater quantity of water would be required for the golf course, Felt Lake was enlarged to a capacity of 278,000,000 gallons. By December the course was ready. "Dick" Templeton, the track coach who first used starting blocks in track meets, was in the first foursome on opening day, January 1, 1930.

The course cost $188,000 to design and build, and enlarging Felt Lake cost $190,000. The club house, which cost $54,000, was designed by the architects Bakewell and Brown, who had designed many buildings on campus, and were noted for designing City Hall in San Francisco. Club member Wells P. Goodenough was the contractor.

One unique feature of the course was Bell's bunker design, which included natural and undefined edges. The 12th hole is one of the most difficult in Northern California, having four trees down the middle of the fairway. The 18th tee is probably the most picturesque because of the spectacular view of San Francisco and almost the entire Bay Area.

Stanford University Golf Course is steeped in tradition.

Throughout the years, Stanford non-collegiate events, including the Stanford Invitational, Regional, Women's NCAA Championships, USGA Junior and a former Senior PGA Tour event, The Gathering at which is currently ranked as the sixth best University Course and many influential golfers throughout the years. Such as Sandy Tatum and Grant Spaeth, and PGA Tour professional Ernie Els and Tiger Woods. The course was designed by Robert Trent Jones II and is owned by the University of California Regents. The course is maintained by the University of California Golf Course and is open to the public. The course is also home to the Stanford Golf Course Clubhouse and the Stanford Golf Course Pro Shop. The course is also home to the Stanford Golf Course Golf Club and the Stanford Golf Course Golf Clubhouse. The course is also home to the Stanford Golf Course Golf Clubhouse and the Stanford Golf Course Golf Clubhouse.

Did You Know??

Stanford hosted the first annual NCAA Women's Golf Championships in 1982. Nineteen five-women teams and 17 individuals - for a total of 112 players - entered the competition on the par-73, 5,903-yard course.

Stanford/Pepsi Women's Intercollegiate

The 2006 tournament marks the 41st year the Women's Fall Intercollegiate has been a part of the Stanford Golf Course tradition. The Cardinal has taken home the top prize in its own event four times: 1982, 1984, 1985 and 1997. Stanford's individual medalists include Joanne Pacillo in 1982, Kathy McCarthy in 1984, Julie Carmichael in 1985, Mhairi McKay tied for first place in 1995 and Hilary Homeyer in 1997.

Peg Barnard California Collegiate

This tournament began as the California Collegiate, but was renamed in honor of one of Stanford's strongest supporters, Peg Barnard. One of the most important legacies left behind by Barnard is the Buck/Cardinal Club, which she founded in 1978 and presided over in its initial few years. The Cardinal Club raised more than five millions dollars in its first decade. In recognition of her support, the University named the women's annual spring intercollegiate championships the Peg Barnard California Collegiate in 1997.

U.S. Intercollegiate

The Cardinal men have won this event 11 times since 1968, including a string of six in a row from 1970-1975. Ten individual titles have been won by nine golfers. They are Sandy Aldeman in 1968, Gary Vanier in '70, Tom Watson in '71, Mike Peck in '76, Mike Milliken in '90, Casey Martin in '95, Joel Kribel in '96 and '97 and Rob Grube in 2006.

The Prestige at PGA West

Played at the Greg Norman Course in 2005, The Prestige consists of eighteen universities from across the United States who are dedicated to academic and athletic excellence. Stanford and University of California, Davis will co-host the event. Stanford finished tied for seventh overall at The Prestige in La Quinta, CA last year with a total of 886.

Stanford University The University at a Glance

On October 1, 1891, the 465 new students who were on hand for opening day ceremonies at Leland Stanford Junior University greeted Leland and Jane Stanford enthusiastically, with a chant they had made up and rehearsed only that morning. Wah-hoo! Wah-hoo! L-S-J-U! Stanford! Its wild and spirited tone symbolized the excitement of this bold adventure. As a pioneer faculty member recalled, "Hope was in every heart, and the presiding spirit of freedom prompted us to dare greatly."

Millions of volumes are housed in many libraries throughout the campus.

For the Stanford's on that day, the university was the realization of a dream and a fitting tribute to the memory of their only son, who had died of typhoid fever weeks before his sixteenth birthday. Far from the nation's center of culture and unencumbered by tradition or ivy, the new university drew students from all over the country: many from California; some who followed professors hired from other colleges and universities; and some simply seeking adventure in the West. Though there were many difficulties during the first months – housing was inadequate, microscopes and books were late in arriving from the East – the first year foretold greatness. As Jane Stanford wrote in the summer of 1892, "Even our fondest hopes have been realized."

Ideas of "Practical Education"

Governor and Mrs. Stanford had come from families of modest means and had built their way up through a life of hard work. So it was natural that their first thoughts were to establish an institution where young men and women could "grapple successfully with the practicalities of life." As their thoughts matured, these ideas of "practical education" enlarged to the concept of producing cultured and useful citizens who were well-prepared for professional success.

More than one hundred years later, the university still enjoys the original 8,180 acres (almost 13 square miles) of grassy fields, eucalyptus groves, and rolling hills that were the Stanfords' generous legacy, as well as the Quadrangle of "long corridors with their stately pillars" at the center of campus. It is still true, as the philosopher William James said, during his stint as a visiting professor, that the climate is "so friendly ... that every morning wakes one fresh for new amounts of work."

Currently 13,900 students, of which 6,500 are undergraduates, live and study on campus. About 40 percent come from California, but all 50 states and approximately 100 countries are represented as well. Among undergraduates, 44 percent are African American, Asian American, Hispanic or Native American. Like the faculty, the Stanford student body is distinguished. Approximately 10 students apply to Stanford for every place in the freshman class. Eighty-four Stanford students have been named Rhodes Scholars, 66 have been named Marshall Scholars, and 48 have been named Truman Scholars. Nearly 90 percent of graduating seniors plan to attend graduate or professional schools. Stanford students also shine in a tremendous array of activities outside the classroom – from student government to music, theater, and journalism. Through the Haas Center for Public Service, students participate in dozens of community service activities, such as tutoring programs for children in nearby East Palo Alto, the Hunger Project, and the Arbor Free Clinic.

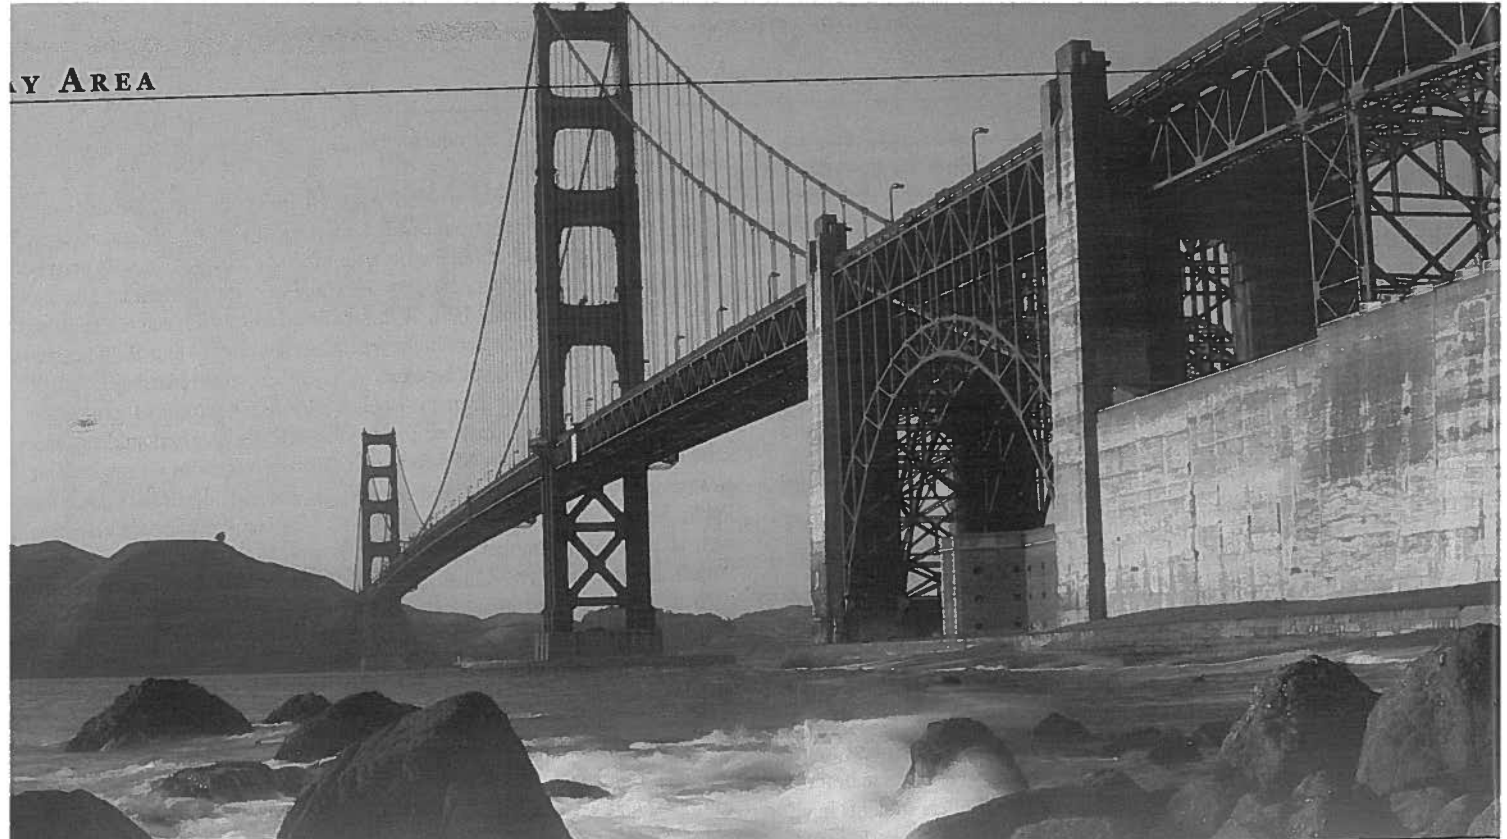

In the athletic arena, Stanford students have enjoyed tremendous success as well. Stanford fields teams in 34 Division I varsity sports – equally divided between men's and women's teams. Of Stanford's 101 national team titles, 50 have been captured since 1990, by far the most in the nation. Thirty-eight of Stanford's athletes and coaches participated in the 1992 Olympics in Barcelona, 49 competed in Atlanta at the 1996 Games, 34 represented Stanford at the 2000 Games in Sydney – by far the most of any university in the nation – and 42 Stanford athletes competed at the 2004 Games in Athens. Intramural and club sports are also popular; over 1,000 students take part in the club sports program, while participation in the intramural program has reached 9,000, with many students active in more than one sport.

Looking Ahead

In her address to the Board of Trustees, in 1904, Jane Stanford said, "... Let us not be afraid to outgrow old thoughts and ways, and dare to think on new lines as to the future of the work under our care." Her thoughts echo in the words of former Stanford President Gerhard Casper, who has said, "The true university must reinvent itself every day ... At Stanford, these are days of such reconsideration and fresh support for our fundamental tasks – teaching, learning, and research."

Stanford University still enjoys the original 8,100 acres of grassy fields, eucalyptus groves, and rolling hills that were the Stanfords' generous legacy.

And if you bring your golf clubs, some of most famous golf courses can be found on the Monterey Peninsula, including Pebble Beach, Spyglass Hill and Cypress Point. The Beach Boardwalk, which features a historic wooden roller coaster, is located along the coast in Santa Cruz.

Further north along the coast is Half Moon Bay, Princeton-by-the-Bay, San Francisco and Marin County, located just across the Golden Gate Bridge. A short ferryboat ride past Alcatraz Island are the coastal towns of Tiburon, Larkspur and Sausalito.

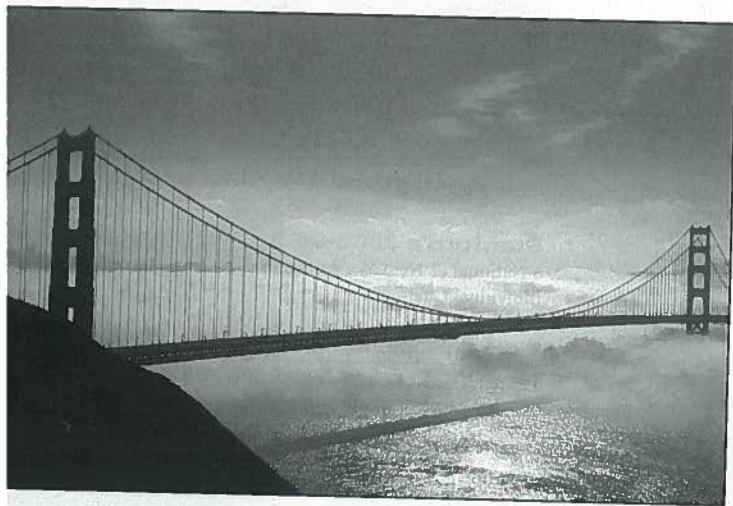

A short drive north and east of Marin County gets you into the Napa Wine Country, home to dozens of well-known vintners. Within a few hours drive from the Bay Area is Lake Tahoe, home to some of the finest skiing in the country.

The Bay Area is also a mecca for some of the finest sports organizations in the nation. The Bay Area has two professional football teams (San Francisco 49ers, Oakland Raiders), two professional baseball teams (San Francisco Giants, Oakland A's), one professional basketball team (Golden State Warriors) and one profes-

Whether it's a cosmopolitan atmosphere, the cultural offerings of one of the great cities in the world, a visit to a coastal location, a trip to the Wine Country or skiing at Lake Tahoe, the San Francisco Bay Area remains one of the great destinations in the world today.

CS HOME OF CHAMPIONS

Home of Champions." Those are the bywords for the Stanford University Athletic Department.

And for good reason. No athletic department in the country can boast of the kind of success that Stanford has accomplished since the 1980's. NCAA team champions. NCAA individual champions. Olympic medalists. Stanford University athletes have been all over the world capturing championships.

The statistics speak for themselves: Stanford University has won 75 NCAA team championships since 1980, the most in the nation; Cardinal athletes have won 52 NCAA championships since 1990 – again the most in the nation. Stanford has brought home 31 NCAA championship trophies the past eight years, including an unprecedented six NCAA team titles in 1996-97. In 1991-92, Stanford athletes took home 29 individual NCAA titles – an NCAA record. Cardinal athletes won 21 individual championships during the 1992-93 season, the second most in history.

Even more impressive is Stanford's string of 12 consecutive Directors' Cup titles (1995-2006). The award honors the nation's top overall athletic program and with 12 straight victories in the competition, it is no wonder Stanford is considered the dominant athletic program in the nation.

Stanford captured its 12th straight Directors' Cup in 2005-06. The Cardinal won a total of three national team crowns (two NCAA) in synchronized swimming (U.S. Collegiate), women's tennis and women's cross country. Stanford had a total of 20 Top 10 finishes with men's water polo, women's basketball, men's swimming, women's swimming, men's gymnastics, women's indoor track, men's crew, women's sailing, men's tennis and women's water polo joining the national champions in the Top Five. The Cardinal also picked up six individual national titles (two NCAA) and 13 team conference championships.

Stanford has now won at least one NCAA team championship for 30 straight years. Cardinal teams have also won four or more NCAA team titles in a single year nine times, an NCAA best.

All totaled, Stanford has won 104 collegiate team titles (92 NCAA championships) and 395 NCAA individual titles. Cardinal women have won an NCAA-best 35 team championships while men's teams have captured 57 NCAA team titles, third-best in the nation. Overall, Stanford's 92 NCAA team championships rank second in the nation.

In the last 10 years (since 1996-97), Stanford has claimed 33 national team championships and 29 NCAA team titles – the best in the country.

The best athletic year in school history arguably came in 1996-97 when Cardinal teams set an NCAA record by winning six NCAA team championships in a single academic year: men's and women's cross country; men's and women's volleyball; and men's and women's tennis. Nine other teams finished in the Top Four nationally, including second-place finishes in women's swimming, men's swimming, men's water polo and women's synchronized swimming. Stanford also posted third-place finishes in women's basketball, baseball and fencing, as well as fourth place finishes in women's golf and women's water polo. In addition, the Stanford co-ed sailing team added a ICYRA national championship.

The 1996-97 school year also saw the Cardinal football team advance to the Sun Bowl, the women's basketball team return to the Final Four, the baseball team qualify for the College World Series and Tiger Woods is one of the PGA's most successful golfers with victories in all four Major events.

At the 1992 Games in Barcelona, Cardinal athletes earned 19 medals - 10 gold, four silver and five bronze. If Stanford were a country, it would've placed 13th in the world with its 19 medals and ninth with 10 golds. Thirty-eight Stanford-affiliated athletes and coaches participated in Barcelona while 41 members of the Cardinal family took part in the 1988 Olympic Games in Seoul, Korea.

Olympic gold medalists are numerous on The Farm. Former Cardinal standout Bob Mathias won back-to-back Olympic decathlon gold medals in 1948 and '52, while swimmers Pablo Morales, Jenny Thompson, Summer Sanders, Janet Evans and Misty Hyman have become household names in the swimming world.

Morales, who helped Stanford win three straight NCAA team championships (1985-87), won three medals at the 1984 Games in Los Angeles (one gold, two silver) and two more gold medals at the 1992 Games in Barcelona. Evans won three golds in the 1988 Games in Seoul, and one gold and one silver in Barcelona, while Sanders won four medals in Barcelona; two gold, one silver and one bronze. Thompson is the most decorated athlete in Olympic history with 12 medals (eight gold, three silver, one bronze). Hyman added her name to the list of Stanford swimming greats by winning the 2000 Olympic gold medal in the 200 meter butterfly to pull off one of the biggest upsets of the Sydney Olympiad.

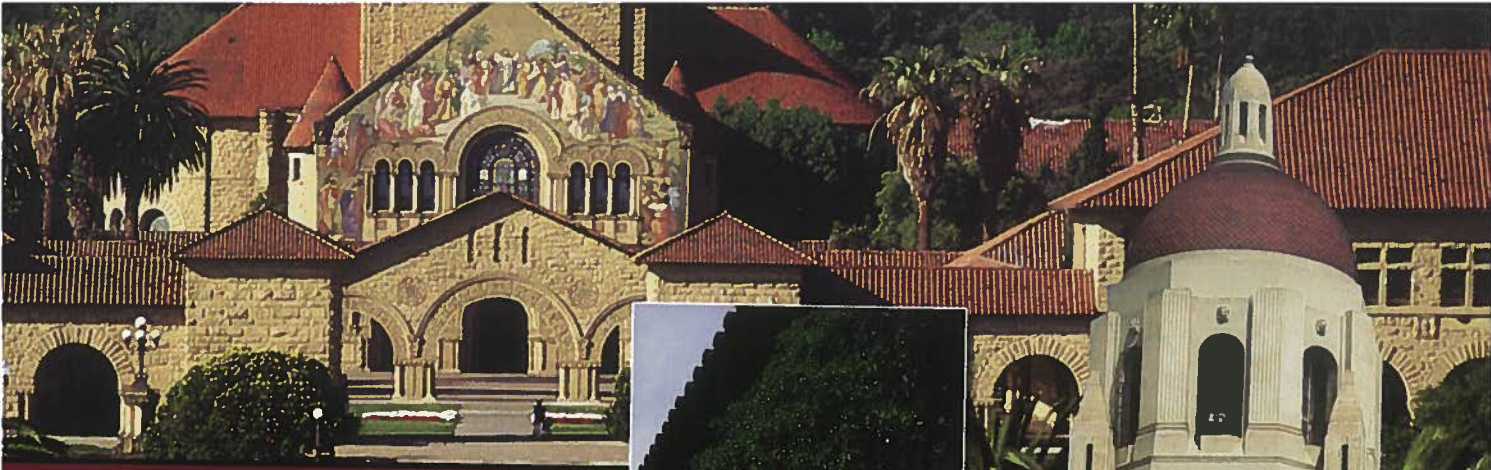

A list of the great student-athletes in the history of Stanford Athletics would be difficult to even come close to compiling but a few of the great names in the amazing history of Stanford Athletics include Tom Watson and Tiger Woods (golf); Tim Mayotte, John McEnroe and Roscoe Tanner (men's tennis); Keri Walsh, Ogonna Nnamani, Kim Oden and Logan Tom (women's volleyball); Kristin Folk (women's basketball/volleyball); Jack McDowell and Mike Mussina (baseball); Julie Foudy (women's soccer); Hank Luisetti, Brevin Knight and Mark Madsen (men's basketball); Jennifer Azzi, Nicole Powell and Kate Starbird (women's basketball); Tony Azevedo (men's water polo); Jim Plunkett, John Elway and Troy Walters (football); Debi Thomas (figure skating); Eric Heiden (speed skating) and the great Ernie Nevers (football); just to name a few.

It's no wonder Stanford University is often referred to as the "NCAA's Champion of Champions."
